New Dress Fabrics For Spring and Summer.

THE FAVORITE fabrics for the season's dresses—Taffetas, Voiles, Mohairs, Serges, Henriettas, Prunellas, Lambelle Cashmere, Shepherd's Checks, and other kindred stuffs—are shown in great profusion. These fabrics reign supreme for late spring and early summer wear—and they lend themselves most effectively to the construction of the present mode of gowns.

Wool Taffetas.

To-day there will be a special display and sale of Wool Taffetas. This fabric is one of the season's best products; a material that possesses a good firm texture and a very rich dull finish that makes it particularly attractive. It is of a medium light weight and suitable for either street or dress wear. We are showing an attractive array of shades, especially in the somber tones, including China Blue, Crushed Rose, Amethyst, Cat-tawba, Crushed Raspberry, and Cedar Green. Prices as follows:

For the new Empire and Directoire gowns, fabrics must be soft, clinging and drapey, and besides have sufficient body to retain their shape. Satin Prunella has all these qualities and many more. It is very serviceable and equally adaptable to the smart street gowns. The colorings were never so rich and artistic, thus providing for the gratification of every taste.

TAFT SPENDS A QUIET DAY

Attends the Unitarian Church with Mrs. Taft.

Rides in Rock Creek Park in Afternoon, Accompanied by Gen. Edwards and Capt. Butt.

President Taft attended divine worship at All Souls' Church, Fourteenth and L streets, yesterday morning.

For the first time since the inauguration Mrs. Taft forsook her regular place of worship, which is St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church, and accompanied her husband to the Unitarian church. They rode to and from the church in one of the White House automobiles.

As usual, there was a crowd of sight-seers in the vicinity of the White House when the President and his wife started out, and a larger crowd near the entrance to the church. While Mr. and Mrs. Taft were at worship the crowd repaired to the shade of the neighboring Franklin Park, for the weather was warm, and then returned to see the President leave the edifice.

President Taft transacted no official business yesterday, but in the afternoon went out for a horseback ride in Rock Creek Park, accompanied by Gen. Clarence R. Edwards and Capt. Archibald W. Butt. The park was full of automobiles and crowds of people, and his companions followed the bride path for several miles and seldom emerged on any of the roadways.

Moving Picture Films Inspected.

Announcement is made that the board of censorship has examined almost 100,000 feet of moving picture films, and of this amount have found only 430 feet objectionable. The board reports that the manufacturers are taking notice of the parts inspected by the board and are checking up to avoid making similar mistakes in the future. The board meets two days a week in the offices of the Motion Picture Patents Company and carefully examines every foot of film before it is placed on the wheels of the local 5 and 10 cent theaters.

Will Give Dramatic Reading.

An attractive affair is being planned by the managers of the Y. M. C. A., and will take place at the Congregational Church, April 22, and the management has procured Miss Katherine Ridgeway, a popular dramatic reader, and Mr. Ernest Lent, cellist, whose artistic work on his chosen instrument is well known in Washington musical circles.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON.

Being the Confessions of the Seven Hundredth Wife.

Translated by HELEN ROWLAND.

I charge thee, my daughter, write not thy time upon a man who hath a sister. For his heart hath been galvanized, and his sentiments wrapped in cotton batting.

Verily, verily, many wives shall make a man a cynic, but one sister shall make a pessimist. Yea, he needeth not a college education, neither cith he require the assistance of the Secret Service, that he may discover thy villainess. For she shall tell him all and more besides.

Lo, every sister constitutes herself her brother's keeper, and guardeth him from other women as a pet lamb from the wolves. And unto him no woman is a mystery, but all are vamps.

Then mark her cunning little ways; for she readeth the pink notes, likewise the baby-blue ones, which he receiveth, and translateth their meaning, crying "Beware! Also, look out! For canst thou not see the trap, and scent the cheese?" Yea, the words of thy mouth she interpreteth unto him, and whether they be wise or foolish, she twisteth them about thy throat with a string of gold.

She unweaveth to him thy false puffs, each one of them, even unto the cost thereof, and if he speaketh concerning thy youthful color, she scoffeth merrily, saying: "Yea, it is a fresh color; for hath it not just been put on?"

HOME FOR ACADEMY

Sisters of Holy Cross to Build at Dumbarton.

THEIR QUARTERS OUTGROWN

Have Passed the Half Century Mark of Their Life at the Capital, and Steady Growth Has Attended Their Work—The Building Will Be Four Stories High, of Italian Brick.

A few years ago, the Sisters of the Holy Cross, whose mother house is at St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, Ind., passed the half century mark in their life at the nation's Capital.

During those long years of change and growth they have identified themselves with the best interests of the city, caring for its Catholic orphan boys, teaching parish schools, devoting their Sundays to catechetical instructions, attending the religious services at the jail, and never losing sight of their real work—the secondary education of young women.

In this last work they have been singularly successful, especially in their school at 1312 Massachusetts avenue, which the Sisters of the Holy Cross founded nearly thirty years ago. They had been called to take charge of St. Matthew's parish school, some years previous by the late Dr. White. He quickly recognized their ability, and suggested the opening of a high-class academy in his parish.

Academy's Growth Steady.

For the last ten years Holy Cross Academy has been steadily outgrowing its present quarters, and the authorities tried at first to procure land in the neighborhood, so as to add to the present building, but failed to find anything suitable. They compromised by renting a near-by house for dormitory purposes to meet the students' demand for rooms. This was only a temporary makeshift, and has not solved the difficulty, so at last it has been decided to build an up-to-date "Home School" on their property at Dumbarton. This was acquired some five years ago, and has since been used as a home for the sisters and a place for recreation for the pupils.

The classes in astronomy, nature study, and domestic science have particularly happy memories of old Dumbarton Hall. This property, within easy reach of the Chevy Chase car line, is beautifully situated on a hill just beyond Rock Creek Park and adjoining the Carnegie Institution. It is bounded on the east and south by the old Pierce Mill road, and comprises twenty-three acres of gently rolling land, naturally drained, well wooded, with clear, cool springs and sunny open spaces. The new building will face the proposed extension of Upton street, and will give a commanding view of Washington, with the historic Potomac in the distance, while the blue hills of Maryland and Virginia form a magnificent setting for the picture.

Will Be of Italian Brick.

The entire building will be Italian brick, with stone trimmings. The architecture chosen is early Tudor, a style which lends itself admirably to scholastic purpose, and one suggestive of Eton and Harrow, Oxford and Cambridge. The main building, a little less than 300 feet in length and four stories high, will contain a large reception hall, several parlors, a library, the main office, reading room, recreation hall, the studio, and all the class rooms. The chapel, assembly hall, dining rooms, and culinary department will occupy the north wing; the music hall and students' private rooms will be on the south wing.

It is needless to state that this structure will be as absolutely fireproof as modern appliances can make it. There will be steel girders, re-enforced concrete floors, and stairways, wide halls, exits and fire escapes. The heating plant will be installed in a separate building away from the school.

The architect has done everything to make the heating and ventilation as near perfection as possible. All rooms and stairs have outside windows, and the sleeping apartments are so arranged that nearly all have southern exposure. The contractors promise to have the building ready by September, and to turn out a piece of work perfect, from the gymnasium on the ground floor to the garden on the roof, with its palmroom and inclosed sun parlors.

The sisters hope to throw open the doors of the new Holy Cross Academy, at Dumbarton Hall, to welcome their students at the beginning of the next school year. They have the cordial support of a long list of friends and patrons and alumnae, who wish this great and noble undertaking Godspeed.

The Army and Navy Academy has changed its quarters from 1410 Harvard street to 1235 Girard street, one of the most commodious residences on Columbia Heights. This fine property has been bought by the Army and Navy Academy, and affords ample accommodation for the increasing numbers of candidates for commissions in the service who patronize this institution.

An important event in college circles is the debate Wednesday evening between the University of Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind., and Georgetown University.

which will take place in Gaston Hall. The question will be: "Resolved, That the Federal government should control and guarantee the bank deposits of national banks." Georgetown will be represented by James Spiller, W. T. F. O'Mara, J. J. F. Crosby, B. and John A. Smith. This will be the third debate between these two universities, and the question will be hotly contested, as each has been the winner of one of the two previous debates.

The students of Belmont Seminary were much interested Wednesday evening in an informal talk before the faculty and pupils by Miss Edith Benham. Miss Benham is the social secretary of the British and Russian embassies, and treated her subject, "Social conventions," in an intelligent as well as an entertaining way. She has spent much time abroad, and her comparisons of the social customs of various countries were exceedingly interesting. Next Wednesday a Shakespeare evening will be given, under the auspices of the Michael Angelo Society, and Miss Briscoe, of the faculty of Belmont, has arranged an attractive programme of songs and recitations appropriate to the occasion.

The boys of St. John's College, Vermont avenue and Thomas circle, are preparing for an elocutionary contest which will be given the last week in April. It will be the first contest of this kind since the death of Dr. Stanford, who was much interested in that class of work among St. John's boys.

A trio of Trinity College girls, Miss Rosalie Loran, of this city; Miss Margaret Salloway, of Boston, and Miss Bertha Dailey, of North Dakota, with their chaperon, Mrs. Haywood, were the guests last week of the Catholic Women's Circle, which held its regular meeting on Monday evening at the home of Miss O'Leary, 118 Eighth street, the president, Mrs. C. Coope, presiding. The topic for discussion was Catholic literature, and Miss Bertha Dailey, member of the senior class at Trinity, read an exhaustive and comprehensive paper on Catholic novels and novelists. At the conclusion of the paper, an open discussion of the question was held. About fifty members and a number of guests were present and gave Miss Dailey a rising vote of thanks. Musical numbers were sung by the Misses Dowd, Mahoney, and Gallagher.

The Beta Sigma Chi Literary Society of Trinity College will hold its semi-monthly meeting in the English room of the college, to-morrow evening. The president, Miss May Morley, of the senior class, will preside, and literary and social matters will be up for discussion. The other officers of the society are the Misses Clara Kennedy, of the senior class, vice president; Emma Ballagroom, of the junior class, secretary; and Claire Wallace, of the sophomore class, treasurer.

Mark Lansburgh, a student of the University of Pennsylvania, has been spending the Easter holidays in Washington. Mr. Lansburgh is an accomplished violinist, and was heard Tuesday at the "ladies' night" given by the Men's Club at Mount Vernon M. E. Church in several songs—"Melody," Massenet; "Canzonetta," by Schubert, with Mr. Edgar Robinson at the piano.

The drawing-room of Madison Hall Seminary made a pretty setting for the song and dramatic recital given Thursday evening by Miss Eva Whitford. A delightful programme had been arranged, which was enthusiastically received by the students, and generously enlarged with encores by Miss Whitford. She was heard in two spring songs—"A Happy Song" (Del Reigo) and "The Spring Song" (White); recitation, "The Old Sweetheart of Mine" (Field); encore, "A Coquette Conquered" (Dunbar); "A Birthday Song" (Cowen); "A Bowl of Roses" (White); "U. S. Buttons" (Carrie J. Bone); encore, "Song of the Jay" (from "Dolly Varden" (by request); two poems, "Danny Deever" and "Ginga Din" (Kipling); three Irish songs, "The Old Plaid Shawl" (Haynes), "I Remember Kissing You" (Lohr), and "Ould Better Ask Me" (Lohr); recitation, the sleep-walk scene from "Macbeth"; encore, quarrel scene from "The School for Scandal" (Sheridan). Miss Whitford's versatility was a matter of general comment among the guests, both her songs and recitations being given in an artistic style. She was fortunate in having the assistance of Miss Regina Elizabeth Winston at the piano. Miss Winston is a scholarship pupil at the Peabody Conservatory of Baltimore, and is often heard in recitals in that city.

A party of Johns Hopkins students came over from Baltimore last week and were week-end guests of Brawner Hatfield, at his home in Brookland. The party included Julian Woloshin, Lloyd Ketron, Frank Hausliesser, Samuel Potter, Billie Frank, and Barney Brooks, all of the medical department of Johns Hopkins. During their stay several delightful social affairs, both in Washington and Brookland, were given in their honor.
